KEEPING UP WITH CAYLEA

Back when I was 12 years old I had my first day in youth group at Healing Hearts. Twice a week I was able to be at my favourite place. It was a place where I could be completely crazy and free but also have incredible mentors pour into me as I pursued a relationship with Jesus. Some of my best memories in high school were the nights I got to go to youth and enjoy the fun events planned for us.

This was something I always wanted to give back as I got older and knew the impact my leaders had on me during my teenage years. When the opportunity arose 6 years ago to now be one of those leaders at HH I was beyond ecstatic. I have had some incredible kids that I have been able to watch grow up and to even see graduate from High School. I was able to bring back old events I loved as a kid but also keep the tradition of being intentional with every kid that came.

I am reminiscing right now because I know that this is my last year as the youth director. God has closed doors for me at Healing Hearts and is leading me to spend more time with my roles at NCEM. I will continue to connect with the youth officially until spring but I ask for your prayers as its hard to close that chapter down. I know I need wisdom too in what exactly my time/travelling will look like for NCEM when the spring/summer hits.

Daniel and Michaela's wedding!

YAYS & NAYS

- Praise God for an amazing new sister in law joining our family.
- Pray for the HH youth as we officially wind up this spring.
- Pray for financial partners to continue to join me monthly(I'm at 58%).

Upcoming Events

Millar Missions Conference - Jan 21-23

NBC Missions Conference- Feb 11/12

I managed to stay up despite not knowing how to stop in skates! It was fun to see how the camp staff build relationships with those in town through hockey and the love of the sport in the community. God can use all kinds of things to reach out to people.

Before all the Christmas busyness began I took a trip to Big River in December helping them host one of their retreat groups. This was a nice time to be out of the city and connect with the NCEM missionaries up there. It has taken a few years but this time they would not let me get away with not playing hockey while up there.

This winter also brought an exciting change to my life. My brother Daniel got married which added a second sister in law to my life. I have always wanted a sister and now I am blessed with two! We had an amazing time in Weyburn celebrating this event and I was thankful to be able to support my brother on his big day.

Would you pray and consider joining my monthly support team?
